

Day 2 – Addendum

OK – I need to update the final hours of day 2 .. now that Night Life event (a fun planned event with a variety of themes)

The 2010 Country fair has come to a close – and we have some country folks –pics are the only thing to do this justice

Josh gave Calvin a makeover – country style – I know hard to see but he looked like he stepped off a Texas ranch – all he needed was a silver belt buckle. The best comment came from Cindy G who said he looks just like the guy she dated in college – LOL

Other notes ... be praying for the kids – they are getting tired and some have said they don't like the week – yeah I know kids (and adults) like our comfort zone and camps can be tough – so please lift them up for their relationship with God to be blessed – their connection with each other to be strengthened – and their passion for life to be stirred up for the exciting journey God has for us every step of the way.

Close – Tuck said I gave him a break in the earlier blog – so here is a note on Tuck – he went country tonight too. White t-shirt, straw hat, jeans, and a swagger like he just got off a 20 hour horse ride. What a great leader we have!

I love these kids!